2022 EMILIA-ROMAGNA GRAND PRIX - SUNDAY

Yuki Tsunoda (AT03-02, Car 22)Race - 7th

"I'm super happy with today, especially to score points at our home track. There are a lot of people from the factory watching here in the grandstands today, every lap I could see the AlphaTauri flags being waved and it gave me a great boost, so it feels like a big thank you to everyone that works so hard in the team. The pace of the car has been really good today, I didn't expect it to be quite that strong heading into the race, but we've made progress through the week and I'm pleased with the performance we showed this afternoon."

Pierre Gasly (AT03-04, Car 10)Race - 12th

"It was a frustrating race, we were all stuck in a DRS train and with the top speed we had we weren't able to do much. We've had really great performances in Quali up until this weekend, where sadly we didn't perform well, which meant we were on the back foot from Friday. We need to go away and work out how to get back to a stronger Qualifying performance for the next race. I'm really excited for Miami, the track looks really good and I'm looking forward to race there."

Franz Tost (Team Principal)

"It was a very exciting race today. I would like to congratulate Oracle Red Bull Racing for their well-deserved one-two. Max and Checo controlled the pace for the entire race, they did a really fantastic job. As for us, we also had a successful race. Yuki started in 12th position and after the first lap was already up to 10th. He drove a really strong race, overtaking many cars, to finish in seventh place. Yuki has been competitive immediately, from Friday onwards, so I think he now has a good basis for the upcoming races. Pierre on the other hand struggled a little bit this weekend and, in the race, he was unable to pass the cars ahead of him, to finish the race in 12th. We now have to analyse everything and find out what we can do to improve our performance for Miami. I think the new upgrades we introduced here this weekend worked well, and we now need to fine tune the car to have both drivers steadily in the points."

Being our home race, many employees of Scuderia AlphaTauri were able to enjoy the race from the grandstands today, so it was great for them to be able to enjoy Yuki's exciting performance here in Imola. I want to say a big thank you to everyone in the team, both in Faenza and Bicester, who has contributed to today's success."
